Dear Harold Weisberg,

I am writing in response to a reply I received from you. I was seeking some biographical information about yourself and you said that I could call at my convenience and you would help me regarding this information.

I will call you on Saturday, April 23rd, sometime in the early afternoon. Hopefully this will be a convenient time for you. I apologize for not letting you know a little more in advance.

I will have some question in mind as you suggested and I am looking forward to talking to you. Thank you for the information on Oswald in New Orleans, but I have discovered that it is in our Federal Documents area in the University Library so I think that I will just read it there. Thank you also for the list of books you sent. I have no time right now but this summer I think I would like to order a few.

I really appreciate the time that you are allowing me, I find your work very interesting.

Thank you
